

At VETTER, quality and environment protection belong together.

On the basis of a Quality Management System according to ISO 9001:2000 as well as an Environmental Management System according to ISO 14001 all processes are directed to sustainability.

This is not only a product without defects but the quality of all processes from purchasing raw material, to production, to the personal contact with our partners.

What does this mean for you?

A reliable partner for long-term and safe growth!

Our thoughts on quality and environment protection:

- Only products without defectives offer high benefits and safety.
- Reliability and fairness are the basis of our daily work.
- A responsible use of raw materials and energy offer sustained growth and long-term costs advantages.
- Ethic principles as well as fair working conditions are self-evident to us.
- Quality and Environmental management are the basis for long-term efficiency and competitiveness!

All this is VETTER quality – because only quality results in quality!
